

About

The United Republic is an independent communications strategy consultancy led by senior practitioners with deep experience across government, major brands, complex stakeholder environments and behaviour change.

We help organisations define the real problem, shape the right strategic response, and guide the work through to delivery when needed.

Our role is not to add noise. It is to bring clarity, direction and judgement at the point where communications decisions matter most.

The tailored team model

We do not force projects through a fixed agency structure. We build the right team around the challenge, drawing on specialist partners and senior talent to make sure strategy is carried through in the right way.

This means clients get strategic thinking that's independent of execution bias, combined with access to the best specialists for each part of the work—whether that's creative development, media strategy, content production, stakeholder engagement, or campaign delivery.

How we're different

Strategy before execution

We start with the problem, not the solution. That means better briefs, clearer direction, and work that's focused on what matters most.

Independent advice

We don't have a vested interest in a particular channel, medium or approach. Our only interest is making sure the strategy is right.

Senior practitioners

You work with experienced strategists who've delivered complex, high-stakes communications programs—not junior account teams.

The right partners

We identify, brief and guide specialist partners based on what the work needs—not what we happen to have in-house.

Evidence-led

Our strategies are grounded in research, insight and data—not assumptions or creative instinct.

Focused on outcomes

We measure success by results, not outputs. Strategy is only as good as what it achieves.

Experience

The United Republic has delivered strategic communications work across government, public sector, purpose-led organisations, major brands and complex stakeholder environments.

Our work spans behaviour change campaigns, brand repositioning, multi-stakeholder engagement programs, crisis and reputation management, campaign strategy and launch planning.

We've led projects including state and local government elections, national awareness campaigns, product and brand launches, and long-term strategic consulting engagements with government and corporate clients.

Principal Consultant - James Trebilcock

With 25 years of experience across strategy, communications, engagement, customer experience and operational leadership, I help organisations solve the right problems before they invest in execution. Through The United Republic, I work with government, community-facing organisations and major brands to uncover the real issues, identify the audiences that matter most, and build evidence-based strategies that connect insight, messaging and delivery.

My work is grounded in research, customer and stakeholder understanding, and a clear view of what drives participation, trust and growth. I bring together strategy, communications and implementation planning to give clients a clear path forward, practical actions, and the right partners to deliver work that performs in the real world.

Get in touch

The United Republic

Strategic Advisory

The Growth Charter

Case Studies

About

jt@theunitedrepublic.com.au

+61 407 744 388

Growth Charter enquiry

Strategic Advisory enquiry